

A Day in the Life With Beanstack

Discover how our flexible platform integrates into your school’s daily routines and supports key stakeholders.

Principal

Building a reading community

I start the school day by recognizing top readers on the morning announcements to boost participation. I constantly chat with students about their reading choices. I like to join in the fun by participating in celebratory events for student reading success!

Librarian

Engaging students and staff

I encourage the love of reading with new challenges every month (Beanstack’s templates make this easy!) and run friendly competitions. Students and teachers are obsessed with my bulletin board, showing the top classes. I mix up incentives, from bookmarks to food and experiences (like lunch in the library). The dashboards and reports allow me to monitor progress by grade, classroom, titles, and more—helping me support classroom teachers and make collection decisions.

Classroom Teacher

Maximizing student reading growth

I ditched cumbersome paper reading logs and use Beanstack for my students’ weekly independent reading goals. Now, I can track my students’ reading habits and gain actionable insights. The Lexile Insights feature helps me offer personalized book recommendations and support that match students’ interests and abilities. I also log class read-aloud sessions to encourage all types of reading. I’m connecting with my students more and seeing a real difference in their willingness to pick up a book.

Literacy Coach

Providing a positive reading environment

Before Beanstack, I felt confident that we were helping students learn to read, but we were really struggling to help them love to read. I identify trends in reading habits, support students and teachers with Lexile Insights, and create themed reading challenges for engagement. Students of all interests and reading levels stay motivated with time-based reading logs.

Student

Growing a love for reading

I use Beanstack to log my reading, earn cool rewards, and see what books my friends are in to. My favorite is that I get to choose any book I want. Each week my class checks the leaderboard to see who’s in the top spot, last week it was me!

Parents & Caregivers

Supporting stronger reading habits

We know that educators can’t do it alone and that family involvement encourages our kids’ positive attitudes about reading. Beanstack’s mobile app makes logging and tracking reading between after-school activities or at home both easy and fun!

Replace traditional quiz-based methods by incorporating competition, recognition, and gamification elements that inspire students to read and foster a strong school reading culture.
