A Nina LaCour Reading Challenge

Award-winning author Nina LaCour has written books for all ages. As she raises her own daughter, she sees so few depictions of queer families at all, and for her reading challenge, she encourages readers of all ages to consider the queer family as its own element in literature. She has curated a list of books featuring queer families that range from picture books to adult novels. As Nina noted, "As we grow up, families, including queer families, start to look different. What we even consider family can look different. Here is a list of picture books and novels where that is all explored."

Add these books to your TBR list and mark them off as you read!
